1 Introduction

Picker Institute Europe (Picker) uses personal information about people with whom it deals in order to carry out its activities and provide its services. Such people include patients, service users, family members, employees (past, present and prospective), clients, suppliers and other business contacts. The information includes name, address, email address, data of birth, private and confidential information and more sensitive information (referred to as special category personal data), such as information relating to health or racial origin.

The lawful and proper treatment of personal data by Picker is extremely important to the success of our organisation and in order to maintain the confidence of our business partners and clients. Aside from the potential damage to Picker's reputation and goodwill, breaches of data protection laws can lead to potential fines of up to EUR20 million (approximately £18 million) or 4% of total worldwide annual turnover (whichever is higher), legal claims from affected individuals and potential criminal proceedings.

All Picker staff are responsible for ensuring that Picker conducts its operations to the highest standards and an integral part of our service offering is the processing of client personal data which we must do in accordance with data protections laws.

This Data Processing and Protection Policy sets out how we process client personal data in order to meet these requirements and applies to all Picker staff who are involved in the processing of or have access to client personal data including all Picker employees, contractors, temporary staff, freelancers, secondees and volunteers.

Should you have any comments or questions in relation to any of the matters referred to in this Data Processing and Protection Policy they should be referred in the first instance to the Picker Data Protection Officer (DPO) who is currently Mike Donoghue of Economit, DPO@pickereurope.ac.uk.

2 Key terms

It is important to note that personal data includes:

- contact information provided by the client for survey respondents such as their names and addresses;
- survey response data if it specifically refers to or names identifiable individuals such as in free text comments;
- data inputted onto our systems from survey responses for so long as we have the ability to identify the respondents from other data we hold;
- contact information for our clients and business partners; and
- internal information relating to Picker Staff.

Additional information concerning the meaning of the words and expressions which are in bold in this Data Processing and Protection Policy are set out in the glossary at the end of this document.

3 Our role as a data processor and data controller

We generally act as a data processor for our clients and in doing so we must ensure that we:

- i. only use client personal data for the specific purposes and in the specific manner agreed with the client; and
- ii. do not extract, re-utilise, use, exploit, redistribute, re-disseminate, copy or store client personal data other than for the purposes of providing our services and in accordance with our standard operating procedures.

We are also responsible for:

- ensuring that we are able to demonstrate our compliance with our obligations under data protection laws; and
- the activities of our subcontractors such as printing or mailing house, data capture, transcribing, language translator, computer assisted telephone interviews and for ensuring that they comply with these requirements.

As part of these requirements we must ensure that any instructions received from clients to process personal data otherwise than in accordance with the terms of the client contract are confirmed in writing by the client before being acted upon and that any instructions to our subcontractors are also given in writing.

Aside from acting as data processor for our clients we are also the data controller for any personal data which we collect for our own purposes. That personal data includes information we hold about contacts at our clients and business partners as well as internal information concerning Picker Staff.

Generally speaking the terms of this policy, unless specifically referenced to survey respondent personal data, apply to all processing of all personal data whether it is client personal data or any other personal data we hold.

4 Data transfer and storage

It is a fundamental principle of data protection that personal data is kept secure and Picker has developed policies and procedures for ensuring that this is the case at all times.

In dealing with survey respondent personal data Picker staff are required to follow the following policies and procedures whereby:

- all survey respondent personal data which we received from a client, such as survey respondent names, addresses and other details, is transferred to us via a client authorised secure file transfer site whereby all users access the intended data is further protected by username and password authentication.
- all survey respondent personal data is transferred and stored using encryption and password protection.

- whenever possible personal identifiers are removed from data being processed (which is known as "pseudonymisation" under data protection laws) and in particular that:
 - a unique reference number or barcode etc. is created and linked to each data subject which is then used for internal purposes (such as tracking who responds and who to send reminders to for the relevant survey);
 - in inputting survey respondent data any references to individuals or from which individuals could be identified free text comments (such as references to staff, patients, service users, unit, ward, etc.) must be replaced by  (or similar) or otherwise removed, unless specified otherwise;
- all survey respondent personal data for each survey or other project is at all times securely stored with restricted access to the files/folders as relevant;
- survey respondent personal data is kept no longer than is strictly necessary for us to perform our obligations to the client and for example survey respondent names and addresses are deleted from our systems as soon as we have no further use of them; and
- access to survey respondent personal data is limited to Picker staff who need access in order to perform our services (including internal audit).

5 Retention of data

As noted above client personal data is only retained for as long as is necessary for us to perform our obligations and is securely destroyed or deleted from our systems once it is no longer needed at the written request of the Client or after 6 months of the project closing or under the applicable client agreement.

However, anonymised data may be held for longer purposes provided that all information that might link the survey respondent with the data has been removed from our systems and, for example, it is not possible for us to identify a survey respondent from his or her reference number.

Other personal data may be kept for longer but must be kept under review and deleted when it is no longer required.

6 Rectification and removal of data

We are required to ensure that all personal data we hold is accurate and, where necessary, kept up to date. Therefore if we are notified at any time by either a client or a data subject that client personal data is in any way inaccurate, such as a survey respondent's name or address, it is corrected without delay when inaccurate.

Moreover, data subjects have a right to object to the processing of their personal data by our clients or by us on their behalf. Accordingly if we are instructed to cease processing an individual's data by our client are required to do so immediately. If such a request is received from a data subject directly then it must be referred to the DPO and follow the DPO's directions to refer it on to the client.

7 Subcontractors

As a data processor we are under a legal obligation under data processing laws to ensure that our subcontractors comply with the same obligations as we undertake to our clients to the extent that they assist us with processing client personal data.

All of our subcontractors have been carefully selected to ensure that they meet the same high standards as we do and have contractually committed to Picker to meet the same standards and requirements as Picker undertakes to its clients.

8 Privacy statements

Our privacy statement can be accessed through our website or is available from the DPO.

For surveys conducted via our web portal a separate privacy statement applies which names the applicable client as the controller of the survey respondent personal data submitted via the portal.

9 IT security arrangements

Data protection laws require that personal data is kept secure by appropriate technical and organisational measures against unauthorised or unlawful processing, and against accidental loss, destruction or damage.

In order to comply with this obligation Picker has developed systems and safeguards to ensure that client personal data is kept secure including through the use of encryption and survey respondent reference numbers where applicable. Furthermore, in order to meet the technical requirements of data protection laws Picker's IT systems have been assessed to meet the best practice specifications for an information security management system set down by ISO standard 27001.

As part of Picker's security arrangements all Picker staff are required to adhere to our IT and Security Policy including in relation to the use of personal devices, such as mobile phones, to ensure that our data security procedures are not compromised in any way.

10 Personal data breach

Personal data breaches arise in any situation where the security or confidentiality of personal data is compromised. This might occur due to:

- Unauthorised access to our systems;
- Loss of data including any loss of any device which may contain or allow access to client personal data (e.g. the loss of any laptop, mobile phone, external hard drive, usb stick etc);
- Client personal data being sent by email; or
- The mis-posting of information relating to a survey respondent.

If such an event happens we deal with it in an open, transparent and professional manner to ensure that any threat or risk to the data subject's and/or our client's interests is kept to a minimum.

In particular any breach or potential breach must be reported to the DPO as soon as possible particularly as under the terms of our agreements with our clients we are required to notify any personal data breach to them as soon as we become aware of it.

11 Transfers of personal data

Client personal data is transferred either to our client or to our authorised subcontractors to the extent they need it to provide their services.

Under the terms of our agreements with our clients we are also restricted from transferring client personal data to countries outside the EEA.

12 Data subject's rights and requests

Data subjects have rights in connection with the processing of their personal data including rights to:

- withdraw consent to processing at any time;
- receive certain information about the data controller's processing activities;
- request access to their personal data that the data controller holds;
- prevent our use of their personal data for direct marketing purposes;
- ask the data controller to erase personal data if it is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected or processed or to rectify inaccurate data or to complete incomplete data;
- restrict processing in specific circumstances;
- challenge processing which has been justified on the basis of the data controller's legitimate interests or in the public interest;
- request a copy of any agreement under which personal data is transferred outside of the EEA;
- object to decisions based solely on automated processing, including profiling;
- prevent processing that is likely to cause damage or distress to the data subject or anyone else;
- be notified of a personal data breach which is likely to result in high risk to their rights and freedoms;
- make a complaint to the Information Commissioner's Office; and
- in limited circumstances, receive or ask for their personal data to be transferred to a third party in a structured, commonly used and machine readable format.

Any such request will usually be made to our client as the data controller in the first instance although we will assist the client in responding to any such request and comply with any directions made by our client as a consequence of the request.

If we receive such a request directly from a survey respondent this is referred to the DPO and we follow the DPO's directions to then forward it on to the client and we must not respond directly to any such request.

13 Changes to this Data Processing and Protection Policy

This Data Processing and Protection Policy is kept under regular review.

Glossary

client personal data: survey respondent personal data and contact details of individuals at our clients.

data controller: a person or organisation that determines when, why and how to process personal data. For all survey respondent personal data this will be our client.

data processor: a person or organisation that processes personal data on the instructions or on behalf of a data controller.

data subject: a living, identified or identifiable individual about whom we hold personal data. Data subjects may be nationals or residents of any country and may have legal rights regarding their personal data. All survey respondents will be data subjects.

data protection laws: means all applicable laws in the UK in relation to the protection and processing of personal data including the General Data Protection Regulation ((EU) 2016/679) and the Data Protection Act 2018.

personal data: any information identifying a data subject or information relating to a data subject that we can identify (directly or indirectly) from that data alone or in combination with other information we possess or can reasonably access. This would include therefore any information about survey respondents where we hold information separately which allows us to identify the relevant individuals. It also includes contact information we hold about our clients and business partners and information concerning Picker Staff. Personal data includes special category personal data. Personal data can be factual (for example, a name, email address, location or date of birth) or an opinion about that person's actions or behaviour.

personal data breach: any act or omission that compromises the security, confidentiality, integrity or availability of personal data or the physical, technical, administrative or organisational safeguards that we or our third party service providers put in place to protect it. The loss, or unauthorised access, disclosure or acquisition, of personal data is a personal data breach.

Picker staff: all Picker officers, employees, contractors, temporary staff, freelancers, secondees and volunteers.

processing or process: any activity that involves the use of personal data. It includes obtaining, recording or holding the data, or carrying out any operation or set of operations on the data including organising, amending, retrieving, using, disclosing, erasing or destroying it. Processing also includes transmitting or transferring personal data to third parties.

special category personal data: information revealing racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious or similar beliefs, trade union membership, physical or mental health conditions, sexual life, sexual orientation, biometric or genetic data, and personal data relating to criminal offences and convictions.

survey respondent personal data: the names, addresses and other contact details of survey respondents and any personal data provided to us by survey respondents for so long as they or individuals referred to in it can be identified from it or other information that we hold.
